

Ten Dead in Bombing Of Mexican Bridge When Train Plunges to Ravine

Several Important Political Figures Aboard Train Going to Mexico City from Vera Cruz; Engine, 4 Cars Fall.

No Foreigners Believed on Train; Two Theories, Political and Robbery, are Held.

Vera Cruz, Mexico, April 7.—At least 10 persons were known dead today and it was feared possibly 30 others also perished in the bombing of a railway bridge near Paso Del Macho which hurled the Vera Cruz-Mexico City night train into a ravine, a burning mass of wreckage.

Federal officials, who hastened to the scene early today, directed the work of extracting burned and twisted bodies from the wreckage at the bottom of the 40-foot "Barranca," or ravine.

No foreigners were believed to be among the victims. The bombing was unofficially attributed to a rebel group.

A telegram from a Western Union linesman at Paso Del Macho said the bomb exploded on the bridge, three miles west of there, and that two Pullmans went through the bridge and caught fire.

All passengers in those Pullmans, apparently about 40, were carbonized," he reported. "The engineer also was burned to death.

"One first class car also fell into the ravine but apparently all passengers escaped."

Other information said 10 bodies had been recovered by 10 a. m. Manuel Hernandez, superintendent of the Vera Cruz Terminal Company, escaped death although he was injured, leading to belief other Pullman passengers also survived.

A wrecking train left Vera Cruz to lift the Pullmans and facilitate the search for bodies.

The bodies of a Pullman car conductor and a fireman were the first to be recovered by rescue parties, which could estimate only that "various others" were dead. The number of victims might reach 50 if all Pullman occupants and some of the crew were killed.

A group of unknown men, believed to be rebels, were reported to have bombed the bridge as the passenger train passed over it at 9:30 p. m. last night, two hours after leaving Vera Cruz for the capital.

The engine, two Pullman cars and the express and mail cars were precipitated into the Barranca beneath the bridge.

The first and second class passenger cars, which did not leave the track, were burned after the explosion. It was not determined immediately whether the attackers set fire to these cars, or if they caught fire from the bomb.

Politicians Aboard
Several important figures in Mexican politics were aboard the train, including the three candidates for the gubernatorial nomination of the national revolutionary (government) party in the primary election held here last Sunday.

They were Col. Eduardo Hernandez Chazaro, chief of the presidential staff of former President Pascual Ortiz Rubio; Ochoa Zamudio and Dr. Padilla. They were en route to Mexico City to present their reports on the elections.

No tourist ships had arrived here in the last few days, and no foreigners were known to have been aboard the train.

Gen. Heriberto Jara, commander of the Vera Cruz military zone, left for Paso Del Macho aboard a special rescue train.

Despite the presence of political authorities on the bombed train, authorities here maintained a belief that it was unlikely the bombing arose from political motives.

Another theory, however, which was at first given some credence, that the motive was robbery of the railroad paymaster proved baseless when it was learned the paymaster was returning to the capital without funds, after paying employees here yesterday.

No Statement Issued

The Mexican railway officials declined to issue any statement until the skeleton reports of the bombing were more complete, the only advice available saying there were "many dead" without making any attempt to estimate the number.

The bomb apparently exploded as the first section of the train passed over the bridge at a place called "Barranca Grande" (Big Ravine), a few miles west of Paso Del Macho, which is 45 miles from this eastern airport.

The train was proceeding slowly as it entered the first of a series of curves on the steeply-ascending route when the railroad starts to climb the Sierra Madre mountains, from sea level, to reach the capital, 2,500 feet above Vera Cruz.

The bridge was destroyed by the explosion, plunging the engine and the first four cars to the depths of the ravine and leaving the others standing on the track, where they burst into flames soon afterward.

Five Other Victims

The blow of the fire was visible from Paso Del Macho throughout the night. The rescue trains left Orizaba, were (Continued on Page Eight)

Marilyn Miller Dies In N. Y. City Today From Sinus Infection

Marilyn Miller

New York, April 7 (AP)—Marilyn Miller, star of Sally and other musical comedy successes, died this morning at Doctors Hospital.

Miss Miller, in private life Mrs. Chester O'Brien, had been ill at the hospital for three weeks. She was admitted suffering from a sinus infection and last week a toxic condition set in.

For a time she showed improvement but a turn for the worse developed Saturday.

Miss Miller was 38 years of age. The death was announced by her physician, Dr. Laurence A. Whittemore.

Miss Miller, at the height of her career, was regarded by Broadway show men as the perfect musical comedy heroine, and the pattern of almost all aspirants to similar careers. She had loveliness, a sweet singing voice, a gift for poignant comedy and she was, more than anything else, a dancer of extraordinary skill and grace.

Her first great triumph was in "Sally," in which the late Florenz Ziegfeld raised her to stardom, after her distinguished service in "The Follies" and in the famous shows on the Ziegfeld Roof.

At the termination of "Sally's" run, she broke with Ziegfeld and went under the management of the late Charles Dillingham. Her first production was a musicalized production of Sir James M. Barrie's Peter Pan.

Dances were incorporated into the play for the star, and although she won a huge personal success the play itself was a failure.

Greatest Success

It was under Dillingham's management, however, that she had her greatest success. This was "Sunny," in which she was co-starred with the late Jack Donaghy. It played at the New Amsterdam, where "Sally" remained so long. She later appeared in a motion picture version of "Sunny."

She died less than two years after her third marriage. On October 1, 1934, she married Chester O'Brien, a chorus man in her last starring show, "As Thousands Cheer." The marriage took place at Harrison, N. Y.

She was born Mary Ellen Reynolds in Evansville, Ind., September 1, 1898. Broadway did not see her until 1914, for Marilyn went abroad, touring Europe for 10 years until Lee Shubert saw her dance in London and brought her immediately to New York.

In 1927 she returned to Ziegfeld's management in "Rosalie," another hit. She appeared for him again in 1931, in "Smiles," co-starring with Adele and Fred Astaire.

Marilyn Miller was one of the first musical comedy stars before whom Hollywood dangled appealing bait. In 1933 she signed a $100,000 contract to make a talking picture. A few years later she returned to Broadway to win new honors in "As Thousands Cheer."

Her first husband was the late Frank Carter, killed in an auto accident in 1928. Two years later she became the wife of the late Jack Pickford, motion picture actor and brother of Mary Pickford.

The Pickfords were divorced in 1927 in Paris.

Ship to Amsterdam

Tokyo, April 7 (AP)—The Scotland Maru, a 3,842-ton freighter, was abandoned today after going aground on sunken rocks 40 miles off the southern coast of Kyushu. The crew of 42 took to lifeboats. All were reported to have landed safely, despite heavy seas.

Joseph P. Long, 63, of 36 Smith avenue, was fatally injured in an unusual accident at the Waters ice house on Lawrence street about 8 o'clock this morning. Mr. Long was standing on the loading platform watching the ice trucks being loaded when a huge cake of ice fell from the top of the ice house onto the platform. As the cake of ice struck the platform, the platform acted as a springboard hurling Mr. Long headlong into one of the empty trucks drawn up to the loading platform. His head struck against one of the ice picks in the truck, and he sustained a fracture of the skull.

Mr. Long was picked up unconscious by workers at the ice plant and the W. N. Conner ambulance was called and rushed him to the Benedictine Hospital, where he died about 11 o'clock this morning.

There were few men better known in amateur baseball circles in Kingston than Mr. Long. During the days of the Twilight Baseball League he was manager of the old Clister & Delaware railroad team, and under his piloting the team always gave a worthy account of itself in the league. Mr. Long never lost his interest in baseball.

For years he was employed as a boilermaker in the old Clister & Delaware shops and was active at his trade until the shops closed when the railroad was absorbed by the New York Central Lines.

Mr. Long was a man of pleasing personality and made and kept friends easily. He was considered one of the best boilermakers in the city, but his hobby was baseball and he devoted the greater part of his spare hours to baseball.

For years Mr. Long was a faithful member of St. Mary's Church. He was a member of the Holy Name Society of that church, and was also an active member of Kingston Council No. 275, Knights of Columbus. During the Carey administration Mr. Long was employed as a caretaker at Hasbrouck Park. His genial personality made him the friend of the children who attended the playground, and he proved one of the most popular caretakers employed at Hasbrouck Park.

Mr. Long is survived by seven children, William, Thomas, Raymond, Alfred and Francis Long, and Mrs. Margaret Juhl, all of this city, and Mrs. Rita Lovgren of Sawkill.

When Mr. Long was admitted to the hospital this morning he was attended by Dr. John F. Larkin, but he had been so seriously injured that he was beyond medical aid.

Fiorino to Apply For a Certificate

This morning in police court Attorney Arthur B. Ewig, who represents Angelo Fiorino, 48, of 713 Broadway, arrested on March 28, on a charge of reckless driving, made application for a postponement of the hearing as he intended to apply for a certificate to have the case considered by the grand jury.

Attorney Roger H. Loughran, who appeared for Miss Bertha Waterman of Howland avenue, who arrested Fiorino, said that under those circumstances he would not oppose the postponement. Judge Culliton set the hearing down for April 15.

Fiorino's arrest followed a crash between the car driven by him and a car driven by Miss Waterman at Elmendorf street and Smith avenue intersection in which four women riding in the Waterman car were injured, but none seriously. Besides Miss Waterman the others were Miss Mary Howard, Miss Adeline Conroy and Miss Blanche Blandford.

Fiorino was also arrested by the police when he failed to produce his driver's license on demand. This morning that charge was dismissed when the records of the motor bureau showed that he had had a license issued to him.

A further charge of violation of the ABC law in transporting flowers was also adjourned to April 15. Willis Carney, 28, of Kilmahure avenue, arrested yesterday on a charge of driving a car carrying license plates issued for another car, was freed $3.

Robert Mack of Esopus avenue, arrested on a charge of passing a red traffic light on Broadway, received a suspended sentence.

Places Public Debt At $34,500,000,000 If Bonus Is Included

Washington, April 7 (AP)—Daniel W. Bell, acting budget director, told the House ways and means committee today the public debt will reach $34,500,000,000 by June 30 if the total cost of paying the bonus is included.

He emphasized, however, that the treasury was unable to tell what portion of the bonus certificates will be presented for payment by that date.

Bell appeared before the committee considering the $799,000,000 tax program at the request of Republican members. They led him through such a maze of inquiries that Representative Vinson (D., Ky.) protested they were "dull."

The financial expert testified that while there is no such thing in the government as an "extraordinary budget," the government does have extraordinary expenditures.

He said, too, that he believed the President had lived up to the law requiring him to make recommendations for taxes when the budget is out of balance. That no debt retirement had been contemplated during the 1937 fiscal year, and that he did not believe he was in a position to make any official suggestions for reducing government expenditures by as much as $1,000,000,000.

Bell said that ordinary expenditures were estimated at $5,649,781,000 for the 1937 fiscal year as against $3,626,723,000 this year and that much of the increase was attributed to congressional action.

National defense expenditures, he said, have mounted from $533,000,000 in 1935 to $337,000,000 contemplated in 1937.

With Republicans seeking information on the public debt, Chairman Doughton (D., N. C.) inserted in the record figures to show that in the 1931-32-33 fiscal years, the government deficit aggregated $7,124,981,726.

Republicans then began asking the budget head to submit figures on how much had been spent by NRA and the settlement administration, and on the number of employees and the amount of salaries. Bell remarked that it would take 10 days to prepare all the material requested of him.

"Just so long as you get it before the election," interrupted Representative Lewis (D., Md.).

"For the benefit of the minority," Vinson remarked, "you might submit the name of the Republican nominee, if any."

"We would be very much interested," Representative Treadway (R., Mass.) commented with a grin.

Ecuador to Quit League

Tornadoes Created As Warm and Cold Air Meet

Washington, April 7 (AP)—Tornadoes, loose now on errands of death and destruction in the south, are created in the spring-time meeting of cold and warm air currents.

Experts of the United States Weather Bureau today cited records to show that spring brings a rush of cold air into warm air regions and sets up violent atmospheric disturbances.

A tornado is part of a larger storm and follows its path. Weather men said the one in the south had an ideal setting in the wide-sweeping cyclone of April 5, which blew out the west to cover almost all of the country east of the Mississippi.

The "greatest of all tornadoes" occurred on March 18, 1925, when funnel-shaped fury lashed through Missouri, Illinois and Indiana, leaving 695 dead, 2,027 injured and $16,500,000 of property destroyed.

No other tornado ever travelled a path as long or as wide in this country. Usually a tornado is one-quarter mile in diameter and lasts from one minute to six hours on the earth's surface. It progresses 30 miles to 40 miles an hour but the velocity of the whirlwind may reach 400 miles to 500 miles an hour.

San Francisco, April 7 (AP)—Stubbhorn James liked the hold of Hawaiian motorship Tricolor today as the Coast Guard cutter Itasca raced westward from Honolulu to aid the children vessel and her crew of 40. For the third time in as many days, she broke out in the Tricolor's number five hold last night, Globe wireless reported. The ship arrived all vessels in the vicinity to "stand by." Sunday, the Tricolor transferred her 14 passengers to the motorship Yarrardale. The Tricolor is about midway between Japan and Hawaii, speeding at full speed toward the Pacific Sea.

11 Persons Killed As Air Line Crashes Near Uniontown, Pa.

New York, April 7 (AP)—Transcontinental and Western Air Lines announced today that one of her air-liners crashed near Uniontown, Pa., killing nine passengers and both pilots.

Columbus, O., April 7 (AP)—Transcontinental & Western Air Inc., official at Port Columbus said at 1:30 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) today a plane carrying 11 passengers and a crew of three from New York city has been unheard from since 10:09 a. m. It was due here at 11:46 a. m.

John Collings, divisional TWA manager, said the plane reported its position as about 10 miles east of Pittsburgh at 10:09 a. m.

He said it had experienced radio trouble and was advised to skip a landing at Pittsburgh and come on to Columbus.

Otto Ferguson was the pilot, H. C. Lewis, co-pilot, and a Miss Granger the hostess.

The plane last stopped at Camden, N. J.

Collings said a plane was being sent out from Pittsburgh to hunt for the missing plane.

The airliner carried 420 gallons of gasoline when it took off from Camden Airport and TWA officials said if the ship was using 80 gallons an hour, it could remain up until 1:50 p. m.

If it was using more, they pointed out, it might already have been forced to make a landing. If using only 70 gallons an hour, it could remain aloft until 2:30 p. m.

Pittsburgh, April 7 (AP)—A plane left the County Airport this afternoon to search for a Transcontinental & Western air liner with 11 passengers aboard and four hours overdue on a flight from New York. Airport officials said the transport had enough gasoline to keep aloft until 2 p. m.

Other planes prepared to join the search.

C. A. Williams, TWA manager here, said:

"Other pilots reported ice forming on the wings as they came down. There is a heavy overcast sky."

TOWNSEND DISSEMINATION DISCLOSED IN BALTIMORE

Baltimore, April 7 (AP)—New dissemination in the leadership of the Townsend plan organization was disclosed today after directors gathered here to "shape policies."

The group demanded the resignation or removal of George H. Highley, head of Club 53, Los Angeles, which boasts 22,000 members.

Dr. F. E. Townsend, co-founder of the Old Age Revolving Pensioners, Ltd., refrained from voting on the resolution which charged that Highley conspired with Robert W. Clements, former secretary and co-founder of the pension organization, in a course of "diagonal conduct."

This "conduct" was said in the resolution to have been directed "toward not only Dr. Townsend and the board of directors, but toward the Townsend pension organization as well."

The directors said they had "lost all confidence" in Highley. They suggested that the club expel him if he refused to resign.

Relief Workers Toil at Tupelo, Gainesville; 3,200 Homes Damaged; Heavy Rains Add to 25-Million Damage.

MILLION NEEDED

Red Cross Announces $1,000,000 Needed to Carry on Relief in Tornado Areas.

(By The Associated Press)

Floods menaced communities in several southern states today in the wake of tornadoes which have killed more than 420 persons in six days and inflicted property damage of $25,000,000.

Swelled by rainfall of from three to four inches in 24 hours, several rivers in Georgia and the Carolinas left their banks.

Richard F. Allen of the American Red Cross announced $1,000,000 was needed for relief of the tornado victims.

Red Cross authorities said 1,727 were badly injured and 3,200 homes damaged or destroyed by the twisters.

Tupelo, Miss., and Gainesville, Ga., both mill cities of about 8,000 population, suffered the most. Their combined deaths totalled more than 310.

There were 40 additional deaths in Mississippi, Tennessee, Alabama, Arkansas and South Carolina.

It was feared many of the injured would die.

Hasty preventive measures were taken to forestall pestilence. The dead were stacked in rows in temporary morgues pending hurried burial.

National guardsmen patrolled wreckage-strewn streets with fixed bayonets, and orders to shoot would be heeded.

Gov. Hugh White of Mississippi took personal charge of relief at Tupelo and estimated property damage at $8,000,000. An area a mile wide and four miles long was destroyed.

Virtually all the business area and much of the residential section of Gainesville was devastated, with an estimated material loss of $15,000,000. City officials said they would take Gainesville 10 years to recover.

Estimates of the property loss in Sunday and Monday tornadoes indicated the toll would run close to $25,000,000 and send the south's wind bill for the past week to nearly $30,000,000.

Floods Are Feared

Gainesville, Ga., April 7 (AP)—Rising rivers added the threat of widespread floods today to the distress of half a dozen southern states stricken by tornadoes which may have claimed a death toll of 500 persons.

More than 420 bodies of victims of windstorms this week and last had been recovered and Red Cross authorities said 1,727 were badly injured by the twisters which damaged 3,200 homes.

Relief workers toiled under overcast skies at two mill cities hardest hit—Tupelo, Miss., and Gainesville, Ga.—where death tolls mounted in shanty parallels to near the 200 mark.

Bodies recovered at Tupelo totalled 143; at Gainesville, 158.

Sixteen other deaths in Mississippi, 12 in Tennessee, 10 in Alabama, and one each in Arkansas and South Carolina resulted from the latest storm.

Rain-swollen streams threatened several communities which escaped damage from the $25,000,000 twister Sunday night and Monday.

Floods, generated by a 4-inch rainfall, coursed through the Carolina foothills, closing highways. About 200 negro homes in Charlotte, N. C., were inundated. Bridges were washed away in eastern North Carolina.

Warning of Floods

The Washington Weather Bureau warned of overflows in the Raleigh district and said "very heavy floods" might be expected on the Cape Fear and Neuse rivers.

The Savannah river was above flood stage at Macon, Ga., West Point, Ga., was warned the Chattahoochee river would reach 24 feet.

The level of 1929 flood—tomorrow. Additional rain was predicted for Georgia and the Carolinas. Continued cool weather and frost dominated the forecast for tornado-watched areas in the west.

The estimated 4,000,000 death toll, which included today WPA workmen, convicts and National Guardsmen, was through debris of the battle against the transfer the last of the storm.

It came and soldiers searched for more a time in Tupelo as the battered set out to bury their dead.

Three days last Thursday killed 43 persons, centring their fury upon Tupelo, Ga., and Gainesville, N. C. Deaths of injured persons added to the toll.

In scattered other southern communities, the violent winds had killed 40 others, bringing the total dead to 284.

What Kind of Job? Prospects Viewed

Ithaca, N. Y., April 7.—Business men and Cornell faculty members are cooperating to help high school students learn about the opportunities and requirements in the trades and professions.

High school students throughout the state may hear a series of discussions on jobs and vocations over the Cornell University radio station WESG each Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock during April, May and June.

Because both high school and college graduates have had trouble in finding openings in the trades and professions, the talks aim to present young men and women with reliable facts that will help them to choose a vocation, according to Bernice Daily, program director.

The following speakers and subjects have been scheduled.

April 11, R. H. Jordan, professor of education at Cornell, tells about teaching as a life-work.

April 18, H. B. Meek, professor of hotel administration, discusses the opportunities in hotel work; April 25, C. K. Burdick, professor of law and dean of the Cornell law school, speaks on the practice of law.

May 2, Olga Brucher, assistant professor of home economics, tells about home economics as a vocation.

May 11, D. S. Kimball, professor of mechanical engineering and dean of the college of engineering, tells about the opportunities in engineering.

May 18, W. C. Ballard, Jr., professor of electrical engineering, speaks on prospects in electrical communication.

May 23, Bristow Adams, professor and editor of publications at the state college of agriculture, discusses journalism as a life-work.

May 30, George Young, Jr., dean of the college of architecture, tells about architecture as a vocation.

June 6, A. T. Kerr, professor of anatomy and secretary of the medical college, gives attention to the profession of medicine.

June 13, A. K. Spaulding, executive vice-president of the Tompkins County Trust Company, speaks on banking as a vocation.

June 20, E. A. Flansburgh, state leader of county agricultural agents, discusses the county agricultural agent and his work.

and on June 27, the last talk in the series is given by C. E. F. Guterman, assistant director of the Cornell University agricultural experiment station. Dr. Guterman tells about opportunities in agricultural research.

Three Persons Dead In Olean Shooting

Olean, N. Y., April 7 (AP)—Two men and a woman are dead here today as the aftermath of what police said was an unsuccessful effort by an oil field worker to gain possession of his two-year old son.

The dead were Kenneth Crosswath, 26; his estranged wife, Kathryn, 25, and Leiland King, 27, another oil worker.

Police Chief John Dempsey said Crosswath shot and killed his wife and King and then turned a pistol on himself in the living room of a relative's home late yesterday while four small children watched.

Leaving his rooming house Chief Dempsey said, Crosswath went to the home of William Stowell and sought the help of Mrs. Stowell, his sister-in-law and twin sister of the boy's mother, to gain possession of his son, Bobby.

Mrs. Stowell brought the child to his father from her own father's home, where Mrs. Crosswath lived. Shortly afterward the mother arrived with King and demanded the boy's return, Chief Dempsey said.

The Stowells, their three children and little Bobby were in the room when the argument started. Mrs. Stowell retired when it became heated and Stowell dashed for a telephone to call police when Crosswath produced a gun, Dempsey continued.

When Chief Dempsey and 11 policemen arrived they found the three bodies sprawled on the floor and the four children huddled in a corner, unharmed.

Dempsey said he learned Crosswath had recently completed a year in jail for an assault on his wife. King, he said, was formerly of Derick City, Pa., and was Crosswath's close friend in the oil fields.

Spring Fire Season On, Warnings Issued

Albany, April 7.—With the thoughts of spring floods, inundated highways and homes, and saturated earth uppermost in their minds the majority of citizens of the state are not giving much thought to forest fires, but with the early advent of warm weather and the opening of the trout season Conservation Department officials realize that the spring fire season is on. Already several fires have been reported and last week the red demon invaded Rensselaer county among others.

This has prompted a warning to motorists, fishermen, campers and hikers to observe care in the wooded areas. No matter how high the streams have been or how wet the woods were from heavy rains and melting snows, a day or two of dry and windy weather will speedily change conditions and bring about danger from fire.

Ground fires are common in this state and they are caused by some careless person dropping a lighted match or smoking material in dry leaves or brush, or leaving the remains of a fire where it can communicate to the leaves or brush. These fires sometimes travel along the ground for some distance and apparently do little damage. Close inspection often reveals, however, that these fires have scorched the bases of trees to cause scars which expose the trees to insect and fungus attacks. In addition the low growing shrubs and plants are destroyed.

Particular care should be exercised by those going into the deep woods during the spring. Careless tossing of a cigarette or match and hundreds of acres may be destroyed before observers on the towers see the tell tale column of smoke rising toward the sky. Oftentimes it is hours later before men can get in to the fire because of its location in the woods and getting fire trucks in is out of the question. By the time the men get to the scene it may have run for miles and have a blazing front of a half mile or more. Then follows hours and sometimes days of intensive work to put it out. A bit of care will prevent this and save money.

The fastest speeds ever attained on rails with standard railway equipment have been achieved by American trains.

Campus Traffic Cases Are Tried In Student Court

Columbus, O. (AP)—Ohio State students who violate traffic rules on the campus are liable to be called before the student court, and anyone getting a second summons is almost certain to be fined.

The local campus is bordered by one principal highway and another bisects it.

Two sessions of the court are held weekly, one to issue warnings in first offense cases and the other for trials. Fines range from one to ten dollars and go to a student loan fund. Defendants may present their own cases and, if dissatisfied with the verdict, may move for new trials. A disgruntled defendant may carry his case to the highest tribunal on the campus—Dr. George W. Rightmire, president of the university.

"SALADA" TEA

Each Puff Less Acid

A LIGHT SMOKE

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

Over a period of years, certain basic advances have been made in the selection and treatment of cigarette tobaccos for Lucky Strike Cigarettes.

They include preliminary analyses of the tobacco selected; use of center leaves; the higher heat treatment of tobacco ("Toasting"); consideration of acid-alkaline balance, with consequent definite improvement in flavor; and controlled uniformity in the finished product.

All these combine to produce a superior cigarette—a modern cigarette, a cigarette made of rich, ripe-bodied tobaccos—A Light Smoke.

Luckies are less acid

Recent chemical tests show that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 33% to 100%.

Confirms Report of Commissioners For Appraisal of Lands

Supreme Court Justice Francis Bergan of Albany at a regular Albany special term approved the application and issued an order confirming the first separate report of the commissioners of appraisal who were appointed to hear claims arising out of the taking of lands for the right of way along the Woodstock-Saugerties, Part 1, highway which will be reconstructed this summer. The commissioners are Daniel Hoffman, James D. Shells and William J. McGrath, who submitted a partial report on February 27.

This report fixed the sums to be paid to seven property owners along the route whose property will be affected. In all seven cases an agreement was reached as to value between the Board of Supervisors, represented by Roscoe V. Elsworth, the county attorney, and Hon. George F. Kaufman, who represented all seven of the claimants. The only opposition to the confirmation of the report was made by Mr. Elsworth, who opposed any extra allowance. All seven cases were heard and disposed of in one session on one day.

The awards which are confirmed are:

Otto J. Baumgarten, $1,000 with interest at 6 per cent from December 28, 1935. Attorneys fees and costs $105.

Stefanie S. Baumgarten, as administrator, etc., $3,000 and interest. Attorneys fees and costs $205.

Charles E. Keefe, $2,000 and interest. Attorneys fees and costs $155.

Frederick R. Keller and another, $1,900. Attorneys fees and costs $150.

Elsie H. Moran $500 and interest. Allowances and counsel fees $80.

To the Residents of the Town of Otsego Interested in the Continuance of the Service of the New York Central Railroad Station at Ashokan, N. Y.

NOTICE—Public Notice has been given by the State of New York Department of Public Service, State Division Public Service Commission, Albany, N. Y.

TO WIT: Case No. 8764 petition the New York Central Railroad Company, under section 74 of the Railroad Law for authority to discontinue the service of an agent at his Ashokan Station, Otsego County between September 13 and May 15 of each year. Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held in the above matter by this Commission, in Room No. 4, First Floor, the State Office Building at Albany, on April 16, 1936, at 10 A. M., by the Commission, Frank E. Roberts, Secretary.

I would ask all citizens interested in this matter and especially those who receive freight and express and ship cargo from this station to make up a list of the freight and express received and shipped by them during the last year and assist in maintaining a year-round service of this station at Ashokan, N. Y., by going to Albany on this date to form a representation from the Town of Otsego in protesting against the discontinuance of service as before mentioned. The legal representative of the Town of Otsego will be the County Attorney. Further information may be obtained from former Supervisor C. A. Lewis and Supervisor L. E. Roberts, Ashokan, N. Y.

Commission Sees Blow to Fraud Drive

Washington, April 7. (AP)—The Securities Commission today saw "difficulties" in its path as the result of a defeat it suffered in the Supreme Court, but it announced that, in general, enforcement of the 1933 securities regulation act would remain unchanged.

J. and Jones, New York oil man, on final victory yesterday in his fight to prevent the commission from forcing him to testify about a proposed $100,000 issue of stock, hailed the decision as a blow to a "tyrannical bureaucracy."

Wall Street inclined to agree with the commission that the decision necessitated no curtailment in the general administration of the securities act, though experts were averse to predicting just how specific cases might be affected.

The court refrained from passing on the constitutionality of the act itself. The 6 to 3 opinion, in halting the commission's efforts to compel Jones to testify, struck at what it termed "unlawful inquisitorial investigations" and declared the commission's action was "wholly unreasonable and arbitrary."

Jones filed a statement giving data on the proposed stock issue, then attempted to withdraw it when it was questioned. The commission sought to continue an investigation, but Jones gave battle on the ground that his application had been withdrawn and the commission had no further jurisdiction over him.

The commission, in a statement last night, said the decision "put difficulties in the way of labelling fraudulent promoters as such, if they are quick to repent before their securities are actually offered to the public."

Otherwise, it said, "the administration of the act is not affected."

WPA Teacher Training Institutes

As a result of misinterpretation of a WPA press release last week announcing a series of Teacher Training Institutes for white collar workers in the Adult Education Program administered by the State Education Department and financed by WPA, numerous queries have piled up in the office of State Administrator Lester W. Herzog, asking about "new jobs on the new project" for professional and technically trained persons.

The institutes, the first of which opened in Buffalo today, are for intensive training in classroom methods of already employed men and women. Caroline A. Whipple, supervisor of teacher training for the entire program explained today.

The institutes are merely an item in the already established Adult Education program for which Mr. Herzog set aside $2,500,000 to give employment to professional and technically trained persons who were on relief as of last November.

Because these white collar workers were assigned teaching jobs in their specialized fields the fortnight of institutes was designed, Miss Whipple said, to train them in teaching methods by lecture and demonstration lessons by experts in teaching and by round table discussion of classroom procedures.

New Jersey Assembly Rejects Hauptmann Case Investigation

Trenton, N. J., April 7 (AP)—Officials pushed two investigations of phases of the Lindbergh kidnapping case today, but attempts to win legislative authority for related probes were listed as crossed chapters.

The New Jersey assembly by decisive votes last night turned down two proposals to investigate the conduct of officials associated with the case.

Governor Harold G. Hoffman, however, continued his own investigation in an attempt to "completely solve" the crime.

In Brooklyn, N. Y., District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan renewed today attempts to verify the story of Paul H. Wendel, who says he was tortured there to compel him to "confess" he kidnapped the Lindbergh baby and was in possession of it when it died. He subsequently retracted the confession.

The Mercer county (N. Y.) grand jury was scheduled to meet today to continued its inquiry in his case. Wendel is held in jail on a murder charge.

The legislative resolutions for investigations came last night from both sides of the divided Republican majority in the lower house.

One, by the governor's opponents, would have created a citizens' committee headed by President Harold W. Dodds of Princeton University, and aimed at the governor's activities only. The other, a Hoffman proposal, would have directed a legislative committee to investigate the acts of all officials concerned in the case, including the governor, and would have authorized investigation of the Lindbergh kidnapping-murder case from its inception.

From Assemblyman Philip P. Gebhardt, Democrat from Hunterdon county where Hauptmann was convicted, came the plea that it would be "far better if possible to forget the whole matter."

Bruno is Cremated.

A few hours earlier, the body of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, who was electrocuted as the Lindbergh baby slayer, was cremated in a crematory in Queens, New York, after brief funeral services. Anna Hauptmann, who until the end maintained her belief in her husband's innocence, broke down with grief and had to be led away.

Whether the grand jury will take notice of information John F. Hollis, former police chief of North Abington, Mass., claims to have about the kidnapping, remains to be seen.

Hollis, now a jailer at the Plymouth (Mass.) House of Correction, said he had wired the foreman of the grand jury that he saw Wendel and Hauptmann with the kidnapped Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., in North Abington on April 10, 1932.

He said the baby was in a light green sedan which bore New Jersey license plates, and was sitting between the two men.

He declared he communicated his information to Governor Hoffman last January, and a month ago received a letter of thanks from him. He said he also wrote to Attorney General David T. Wilentz, of whom he had seen but got no reply.

Hollis said he asked the grand jury foreman not to close the investigation into the Wendel case until it has heard his (Hollis') story. Up to last night he had received no reply.

Campile's Hearing Set For April 17

John Campile of Marlborough appeared before U. S. Commissioner Arthur C. Connelly, Monday afternoon, to ask that the case against him for violation of the federal liquor law be transferred from Ulster county to Warren county.

Campile was arrested at Marlborough by Corporal Norman Baker of the State Troopers and a federal agent for possession of an unlicensed still in Warren county.

Commissioner Connelly, instead of granting the request of Campile, set his hearing for April 17 in District Court, New York city, and fixed bail at $1,000, which the defendant furnished.

On Homeward Flight
Fernando De Noronha, April 7 (AP).—The German Zeppelin Hindenburg passed over this island in the Atlantic, northeast of Brazil, today on its homeward flight to Friedrichshafen after leaving Rio De Janeiro yesterday on its first round-trip.

An engraved, silver cup was awarded the New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse, N. Y., for its exhibit in landscape design presented by the Department of Landscape and Recreational Management at the 17th National Flower and Garden Show held in Baltimore, Maryland, March 14-21 inclusive.

ON THE POLITICAL FRONT

MARY W. DEWSON

(By The Associated Press)

Mary W. Dewson already has three months' campaigning behind her in the far and middle west, where she upheld "New Deal" performance before women's groups.

As director of the Democratic party's women's division she devised the "Reporter Plan" in which women's clubs organize to study governmental business, and in particular, "New Deal" measures. Now she has 15,000 members in such clubs.

She will stay on the road talking to them until election day, drawing near when she will retire to her New York office to direct her feminine army by phone telegram and letter.

Miss Dewson, "Molly" to everyone in the party from the President down—was president of the Consumer's League when she first met Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt years ago. She enlisted at Democratic headquarters in 1932 and became James A. Farley's aide.

French Woman's Son
Madrid, April 7 (AP).—A small bomb, concealed in a basket of eggs, exploded today in the kitchen of the home of Eduardo Orta-Garcia, former Governor of Madrid, wounding his wife, Manuela, slightly in the hand. Fragments of the package, she had thrown a heavy mattress over the basket.

Crown Prince at 55 Retains Youth, Love Of the German People

By LOUIS F. LOCHNER

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)

Potsdam, April 7.—A passionate love of the outdoor life has made Crown Prince Wilhelm, the former Kaiser's eldest son, the youngest looking man of almost 55 in Berlin society. Were it not for the silver grey hair which adorns his interesting Frederick-like head, nobody would think of him as more than 50.

His slim, supple, athletic figure is that of a young man in the twenties; his tanned, unruined face gives evidence of an ever youthful constitution.

When he appears at a public function in the smart uniform of a death-head hussar or the dapper, tail-less full dress of a naval regiment, he is easily the center of attraction, barring not even popular leaders of the third Reich.

If perchance his dashing Mercedes limousine gets into a traffic jam and the people see at the steering wheel the man who seemed destined to rule a mighty nation, cheers go up and men and women in every walk of life hail him.

Often he can be seen with the Crown Princess Cecilie at the opera or in Philharmonic Hall. Immediately there is a craning of necks and rapidly the message spreads, "The Imperial family is here tonight."

"I love the outdoor life," the crown prince replied to a question as to his hobbies. "I am fond of biking, hunting and outdoor sports generally. I used to play tennis a great deal, but more lately have taken to golf. Only this morning I put in two hours at the Wannsee Golf Club. I don't think one can do both tennis and golf successfully, so I've given up tennis in favor of golf."

He's fond of swimming, boxing, football and six-day bicycle events.

His love of motoring results not so much from a passion for driving as from a love for everything that has to do with machinery.

"I like to run a railway engine," he said.

Need I Say More?

He was the 9th degree in looks. And knew each thing that's learned from books. His manner was extremely rare. With poise and charm beyond compare. He said: "Let's wed right on the spot!" And so a preacher tied the knot. Now this sounds like a story old. But, Ah!—the half has not been told. "Live happily forever after?" Your question throws me into laughter. One blissful day with my adored. But came the night—and Gosh; he snored.

Aunt—Precious what did you do in school today?

Precious—We had nature study. Each pupil had to bring a specimen from home.

Aunt—And what did you take, precious?

Precious—I took a bedbug in a bottle.

Theodore Roosevelt once said: "Beware of the man who does not translate his words into deeds."

The threesome young lawyer was wearing out both the court and the jury with the length of his tedious harangue to the jury. Finally, he paused and said to the judge:

Lawyer—Your honor, is it your pleasure that I proceed with my argument?

Judge—Young man, the pleasure of listening to you ended an hour ago, but you may proceed.

Popping another question, a writer asks: "What makes Sunday breakfast the best meal of the week?" Well, for one thing, it is not necessary to get up so early in order to eat it.

First Drunk—I found (hic) a half dollar.

Second Drunk—It's mine, (hic) it's got my name on it, (hic).

First Drunk—What's your name?

Second Drunk—E Pluribus Unum.

First Drunk—Yeah, it's yours.

A gentleman of the old school took his daughter on a trip to New York. They went to see one of those plays that made father blush a bit.

Father—I'm sorry, Dorothy, that I brought you here. This is hardly a play for a girl of your age.

Dorothy—Oh, that's all right, Dad. It will probably live up a bit before the end.

When you grow too old to learn, you have just about outlived your usefulness.

A mother was trying to impress upon her son that doing one's duty was rarely pleasant, but that it should be done. And in order to prove her point she illustrated:

Mother—Look at your father. He works and works, not that he likes it, but because it is his duty. Can you imagine your father doing anything just because it was pleasant?

Son—Yes, Mother Dear.

Mother—How and when?

Son (gallantly)—When he married you, Mother Dear.

Alas! You can't advocate anything now without seeming to be a disciple of some damned crank.

Colonel Culpepper (inspecting a savage-looking mongrel dog that his colored chauffeur was leading down the street)—Why do you call that a one-man dog, Sam?

Sam—Well, sure, 'cause one man can all day he eats at one time, huh.

Vacation Ends Tonight

Miami, Fla., April 7 (P)—President Roosevelt planned to end his fishing trip in southern waters tonight. He will reach port, probably here, tomorrow shortly after noon and entrain immediately for his Warm Springs, Ga., home to spend Thursday. He will arrive in Washington about noon Friday. From the C. S. S. Potomac near Stump Cay, due east from here, the President kept in touch by wireless with the tornado disaster in the southeastern states. At Warm Springs Mr. Roosevelt will be close to the tornadoes' path across Georgia from Mississippi. He had planned the visit at Warm Springs on his way here but postponed it until his return after delaying departure from Washington because of the eastern floods.

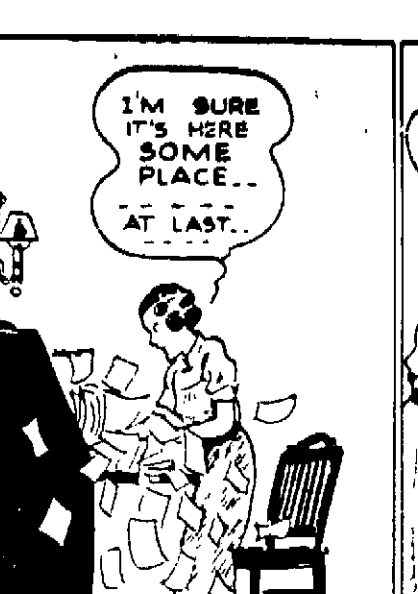

That overcharged cannon explains why I'm here.

At last I arrived here at Mass," says Miss Alice.

Pickerell Romance Appears at an End

Montclair, N. J., April 7 (P)—The romance of Beatrice Barclay Pickerell, daughter of a socially prominent family, and Bevis Pickerell, her truck driver husband, appeared definitely at an end today.

Mrs. Pickerell was at her widowed mother's home here and, while reluctant to discuss her marital difficulties, admitted she had separated from her husband, with whom she lived in East Orange.

Now only 20 years old, she eloped with Pickerell in 1931 and subsequently was disinherited by her father, the late John Barclay, a vice president of the Western Union Telegraph Company.

He left the bulk of his estate to the widow and their other children. To Beatrice he left $100.

In an effort to break up the marriage, Barclay caused Pickerell's arrest on statutory charges. The young wife, then only 15, provided the money for his bail and the charges later were dropped. She has retained custody of a son, born in 1933.

Citadel of Faith

High in a mountain fortress nestled beneath the jagged pinnacles and spires of Monte Serrata and 50 miles from Barcelona, is the famed historic monastery of Montserrat, Spain's great citadel of faith. Once inaccessible, the monastery dates back to the Story of the Statue, when Saracen hordes invaded Spain and destroyed the Christian churches. To save dishonor to the Statue of the Virgin, pious inhabitants of Barcelona fled with the image to the mountain fastness.

New Palts, April 7—Mr. and Mrs. Silas Halstead were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Granville Davis in Kingston last Sunday.

Ernest Schaffert is the owner of a new car.

Leslie McCormick will open an automobile repair shop in part of the shop of Thomas Heilley in Modena.

Betty Lou Sutherland has been ill with the mumps.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Alsdorf entertained their daughter, Ethel, who teaches at Hempstead, L. I., over the week-end.

Miss Myra Gerald visited her aunt, Mrs. B. V. Roach, in Kingston last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Raab entertained William Ayers of Briarcliff Manor on Saturday.

Mrs. Eltinge Harp has returned from visiting her sister, Mrs. Herman Powell, at Schenectady.

Mr. and Mrs. Emory Hasbrouck are the parents of another son.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lent are making their home with her father, Samuel Waring. Mr. and Mrs. Lent have rented their house on Wilcox avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Raab entertained Muriel Hedges and Anna May Decker of Poughkeepsie on Sunday.

Miss Alice Finley and Mrs. Mary Stahl, who have been spending the winter in New York city, have returned to their home.

Mrs. John F. Chase has been ill at her home for some time with a foot infection.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Harvey, who spent several months in Florida, are enroute to their home in New Palts. They will visit their daughter, Ellen Harvey, at Columbia, Ohio, on their way.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Buchanan entertained their son, Garret, over the week-end.

Raymond Hasbrouck and son, Francis, Raymond Crana, all of New Palts, and Miss Frances Brown of Milton attended the flower show in New York last week.

There were thirty present at the card party held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Boettiger last Friday night for the benefit of the Good Fellowship Society. The sum of six dollars and a half was realized. Those winning prizes were: Stanley Ashton, Mrs. Cornelia Shirley, Charles Guelcher and Roy Terwilliger.

Mrs. Mary Michael of Ohlerville is getting along nicely from breaking her ankle several days ago.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hess were callers in Newburgh on Wednesday evening.

Young people's night was observed recently at a meeting of Huguenot Grange. Frederick Heinsohn, a group of high school students and Ralph Johnson and Dr. Irving Range participated in the program. Mr. Johnson sang "A Bit of Heaven" and Dr. Range accompanied Francis Wright, president of the Agricultural Club, gave a talk about some of the club's activities after the high school boys gave their part. Musical numbers were as follows: Guitar solo by Don Minard, accordion solo by Everett Pelham, violin solo by Henry Hudson, duet, harmonica by Harry Denton and Jew's harp by Francis Wright. Mr. Heinsohn then showed some moving pictures, "Four Ways Westward" and "White and How Bananas Grow". The program closed with Mr. Johnson singing "Irish Eyes", accompanied by Dr. Range. Refreshments were served with Dr. and Mrs. Irving Range as host and hostess.

Mrs. John E. Vanderlyn of Ohlerville celebrated her birthday last Monday. Mrs. Walter Benjamin spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Vanderlyn and presented Mrs. Vanderlyn with a birthday cake.

Joseph Hasbrouck was given a surprise by a number of his gentleman friends at his home last week. Mrs. Georgia Lillberg is ill at her home in Puttarch.

Marion Schneider was a guest of Ada Mae Rutledge at Puttarch Sunday afternoon.

Masons Present Medal to Harry S. Myer With The Appropriate Rites

Rondout Lodge, No. 842, F. & A. M., Pays Honor to Veteran Masonic Member at Meeting Monday Evening in the Masonic Building on Lower Broadway.

Rondout Lodge, No. 343, Free and Accepted Masons, on Monday evening paid honor to Harry S. Myer of 666 Broadway, who has been a Master Mason for 54 years, and who was presented with the 50 year service medal by the lodge, with appropriate ceremony.

Mr. Myer was born in this city and when a boy of about 15 years of age he went to New York city, and in 1882 he became a member of American Lodge, No. 538, of that city. He was initiated on March 3, 1882, passed on March 17, and raised on April 7 of that year. His name was proposed for membership by Dr. Franklin Smith. At that time James B. Fraser was master of American Lodge and served from 1880 to 1900.

Mr. Myer became affiliated with Rondout Lodge in 1911, and has been an active member since that time. His Masonic slogan has been and is "Without regard as to how much any brother may have done for Masonry, Masonry has done and will do more for him." Mr. Myer has been a resident of Kingston for the past half century.

Veterans' Night, as the event last evening is called, is an event that is seldom celebrated as few Master Masons live to celebrate their golden anniversary as Masons, and Rondout Lodge at this time now has but two members who have reached or passed that milestone in the person of Brothers James Tongue, who was raised a Master Mason in 1887, and Brother Myer, who was raised in 1882.

At the opening of the lodge the veteran brother was escorted into the lodge room by Clarence S. Rowland, a past master of the lodge, and was greeted with hearty applause. Henry Millonig, Jr., master of the lodge, extended to Brother Myer the well wishes and greetings of the lodge.

Charles H. Gregory, past district deputy of the Greene-Union Masonic District, and a past master of Rondout Lodge, in introducing the guest of honor, said: "I am deeply sensible of the indirect honor shown me tonight. It is a particular favor and a special privilege with which I have been invested in being extended the opportunity to present to you our guest of honor. I shall be reasonably brief because experience has taught me that a listening audience these days is not very susceptible to the acceptability of a long torrent of words except from a speaker of note with a special message. After a review of Brother Myer's Masonic life, Mr. Gregory closed his address by saying: "The paths of all our lives are marked with milestones, and these milestones get their significance from being recognized by our friends and being shared with them. From the beginning of the path to the end, the great events, the golden days stand forth. We all feel proud and happy to have you with us on this occasion, our friendship with you has been so intimate, so cordial and so completely satisfying for such a number of years that I speak with authority when I say that we congratulate you most warmly and wish you every happiness."

"We feel," said Mr. Gregory, "that fate has been kind and that you are eminently worthy of all the honors and gifts of this life. All good wishes and felicitations to you; may you continue in the years ahead, to enjoy the fine friendships and associations that have been your joy and privilege in the years that are past. We most cordially congratulate you upon your Masonic birthday, but yet more do we congratulate you for the splendid services you have rendered and hope that you may live long in health and strength to carry them forward."

P. H. Carey, the present district deputy of the Greene-Union Masonic District, also spoke of Brother Myer's Masonic life and activities and on behalf of Most Worshipful R. Elliot Owens, grand master of the state of New York, presented the Grand Lodge 50 year service medal. Following the presentation the lodge adjourned and a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments served.

Colder Weather and Snow Flurries Here

The weather man kept his promise of possibly snow and colder weather today for this morning shortly after 8 o'clock the air was filled with flurries of snow and the temperature dropped rapidly. Following the snow flurries the temperature moderated somewhat and the snow changed to rain. At noon today a mixture of snow and rain fell here.

Southern Storm Dead Nears 500

Tenn., and Atlanta, Ga., but hundreds were attended as conditions best would permit in hastily improvised havens near the spots where they were struck down.

10 Years to Recover.
The material loss in Tupelo was estimated at $8,000,000; here city officials said the damage would total $15,000,000 and that at least 10 years would be needed for full recovery.

Thousands of persons, many of them homeless and mourning their own dead, yet searched wearily, doggedly through the debris for other victims.

The tornadoes, following by only a few days the storms that devastated parts of Cordoba, Ga., and Greensboro, N. C., in a similar career of destruction, left death behind also at LaCrosse, Ark., Coffeeville, Booneville and Auburn, Miss., Columbia, Clifton, McNairy and Lincoln, Tenn., Red Bay and Elkwood, Ala., and Anderson, S. C.

Tupelo was struck Sunday night, Gainesville about 8:30 a. m. Monday. Gov. Hugh White of Mississippi took personal charge of relief activities at Tupelo.

After inflicting heavy property loss at Acworth and Lavonia in its journey across Georgia, the wind descended on Gainesville, and then struck again at Anderson, S. C., just across the Georgia-Carolina line, where 30 were injured and one of them died today.

Last night but three minutes here, the twister hit the business district. Not a structure escaped its fury in 14 solid blocks of brick structures.

Masons of Splinters.
Beautiful homes were a mass of splinters, the negro section was leveled. In many places not even the foundations were left to show where buildings had been.

Rain and fire added to the misery of the situation. Time and again firemen had to move hose to care for a new outbreak of flames.

Fear that today's search would send the Gainesville death list to 200 was expressed by G. J. Anderson, superintendent of the Cooper Manufacturing Company, whose trousers factory was one of the chief places of horror.

Fire followed the wind's destruction of the three-story plant and some 45 bodies, mostly those of women, were removed from the smoldering ruins yesterday. Anderson said, however, that of 125 workers who checked in yesterday morning only three had been accounted for. Authorities said several leveled business structures probably would yield additional bodies. For many hours after the storm it was possible only to seek out places where most bodies could be found.

650 Demolished Houses.
Stone J. Crane, Red Cross relief supervisor, said 650 demolished residences had been counted before darkness and added "the count is nowhere near complete."

Firemen with apparatus from as far away as Atlanta, 60 miles to the southwest, four sporadic outbreaks of flames in the destroyed area throughout the day and night.

Last night Atlanta policemen also on guard duty arrested five youths for looting. Convicts, firemen and National Guardsmen worked shoulder to shoulder in clearing the streets of wreckage.

Survivors ate at kitchens of the Red Cross, National Guard and Salvation Army, welcoming rations of vegetable soup, sandwiches, coffee and doughnuts after a chilly night, which many spent in the open.

Tragic Bits.
A dead man clutching a dead boy of about 10, lay on a morgue slab. A slip of paper pinned to the man's shroud read: "Unknown."

Among the paint-twisted faces in one of the morgues: The calm features of a young girl, her skin spotless, her lips rouged. A beam crushed her chest as she stood in what she thought the safety of a doorway.

A young husband survived the ruins of his new home, commenting dully: "I paid the last note last week."

Two weeks ago Gainesville citizens voted to raise the old courthouse and build a new one. The wind did the first-mentioned job in three minutes.

A figure dressed in a white Easter outfit stood motionless in the midst of ruins on a business street—a red carnation in the lapel. It was a dress dummy, untouched by flying glass and bricks.

Shackles were removed from convicts while they labored with picks to remove bodies from wreckage.

MATTERS BEFORE SURROGATE'S COURT

Letters testamentary have been issued at the Surrogate court in the following estates:

Emma May Lane, Kerhonkson, on petition of Frank Lane, a son, executor. Value of estate, $5,000 personal. Distributors: Milton, Frank and Harry Lane, sons, all of Kerhonkson; two daughters, Clara Bieker of Connelly and Elizabeth Dulin, North Bergen, N. J.

Jacob Pettibone, Kerhonkson, on petition of Marion Fluckiger, executrix. Value of estate, $2,000 real; $1,200 personal. The will gives $100 to Fine Bush cemetery and the residue of the estate to Marion Fluckiger.

Frank Cuomo, Highland, on petition of Abraham Mandelbaum, executor. Value of estate, $7,000 real and $9,000 personal. Distributors are Mrs. Teresa Cuomo, his wife, and son Joseph.

MARKET FOR FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

New York, April 7 (AP)—(State Department of Agriculture and Markets)—Unloadings of fresh fruits and vegetables were moderate to light due to the anticipated light demand and trading owing to the observance of the Passover holiday.

New York update 100 lb. sacks round white potatoes, U. S. No. 1, 1.50-1.75, and Long Island 100 lb. sacks Green Mountain U. S. No. 1, 2.00-2.10; some fancy as high as 2.25. Maine, 100 lb. sacks Green Mountain U. S. No. 1, realized 2.00-2.15.

Old crop onion supplies were moderate. New York 50 lb. sacks yellow onions, U. S. No. 1, 55-55, some fine quality realized 90-1.00, poorer, 40-50.

Supplies of old crop Danish white cabbage continued light. Sales on 50 lb. sacks, 35-50 for best, and 25-30 for poorer.

Offerings of topped carrots from New York state were moderate—100 lb. sacks unwashed carrots, 90-1.15 for the best, and 75 for poorer. 50 lb. sacks sold at 40-50. Washed carrots in bushel baskets or tubs, 75-90.

Apple receipts from New York state were light today. The demand was equally light, and the market ruled dull. Western New York Baldwin apples, N. Y. U. S. Grade No. 1, 2 1/2 inch minimum, sold at 90-1.00 per open box or bushel basket; McIntosh No. 1, 2 1/2 inch, ordinary quality, brought 1.00-1.25; Rome Beauty No. 1, 2 1/2 inch, 1.10-1.15, and Rhode Island Greening, No. 1, 2 1/2 inch, 1.00-1.12 1/2.

Canned orange juice with the "bite of fresh juice, developed by the Government's Citrus Products Laboratory at Winter Haven, Fla., has widened the market for this fruit. More than a half million boxes of oranges went into canned juice last season compared to less than 50,000 boxes five years ago.

This Nurse Her Own Hospital When Sudden Emergency Calls

MRS. MARY THOMAS

MODERN hospitals, with staffs of specialists and the latest in scientific equipment, have changed in a generation the whole health picture of the country. Yet there are still sections where illness is warded off by an axe not under the bed, blade upward.

Out beyond the reach of the hospitals are areas of 1,000 square miles where there never has been a doctor or nurse. Ailments other than broken bones are treated with herb drinks, or by reciting verses from the Bible. Salves are supposed to allay fevers. Tea made from root scraped off of the chimney is a favorite prescription for many ills. Such modern ideas as ranch trees are as remote as horseback, brought by the frontier nurse. But all the primitive health conditions are not in the woods. Medicine's "No Man's Land" is nowadays often at people's back doors. Families destitute from depression years, eager to relief work camps, and other groups handling industrial jobs, are providing thousands of emergency cases. The country nurse has to be able to supplement the skill of the country doctor in taking the hospital to the patient.

"When the telephone rings, our system goes into action," says Mrs. Mary Thomas, at work among the levee camps in Arkansas. "Medical supplies and surgical equipment are in charge of the doctor. I carry syringes, bandages, sterilizing materials and paraphernalia for anesthesia."

"A quick look into the surgical kit, a note on the nursing equipment, a check on the flashlight to be sure batteries are fresh—the difference might mean the difference of a life—and one is off to the scene of trouble."

In the levee camps there are mothers not more than fifteen years old. They live in shacks where there is not even a chair. I have sat on the floor and bathed a newborn baby. Sometimes the shacks have no windows. Everything has to be done by flashlight. "The problem of light, always a grave one in emergency cases, is in fact completely solved by flashlight. They even help lead the patient—we've crawled through barbed wire fences at midnight in an effort to locate an emergency case. "People sometimes think nursing has lost its 'adventure' quality. Twenty-four hours in the levee camps would cure that notion. War nurses at least had dressing stations. We haven't even those—we're right in the trenches."

10 Dead In Bombing Of Mexican Bridge

of Paso Del Macho, and Vera Cruz immediately after news of the wreck was received.

One railroad employee reached Orizaba to report that the bodies of a pullman conductor and fireman had been recovered by rescuers and that "various others" were dead, many of them caught under the debris of the shattered cars.

The first rescue efforts were hampered by the depth of the Barranca, into which the engine and cars fell, and by the rough terrain.

A squad of soldiers accompanied General Jara to aid in the rescue work, maintain order and search for the attackers.

The bombers, however, apparently escaped under the cover of darkness.

The destroyed train was one which leaves Vera Cruz each night at 7:30 p. m., for Mexico City, on the Ferrocarril Mexicano (Mexican Railway), which is British-operated and partly British-owned.

OLD TIME FIGHTER KNOWN HERE AS KELLY, IS DEAD

F. Paul Vaccarelli, 53, president of the Loyal Labor Legion and active in dock labor disputes for 15 years in New York city, died of pneumonia last Friday night in Misericordia Hospital in that city. In addition to heading the Labor Legion, he was president of the Scow Trimmers' Union, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. He also conducted a real estate and insurance business. The son of an Italian immigrant he began work as an errand boy when 14. At 16, he obtained work as a stevedore and eventually became an official of the River Front and Marine Workers' Association. There was an interval of five or six years, however, during which he was a pugilist, fighting under the name of Paul Kelly. He also acquired considerable political power on the lower East Side in New York through his friendship with Big Tim Sullivan, then Tammany leader. He was well known to Kingston fight fans under the name of Paul Kelly and fought many fights here under the auspices of the old Hauck Gymnasium Club in the bouts staged in old Washington Hall. The old hall was burned down some years ago and the Forest Packing Company plant now stands on the site of the old hall.

NEW YORK SAMPLE SHOP STILL IN SAME LOCATION

Ben Fein, manager of the New York Sample Shop on Wall street, has had a number of patrons who are under the impression that the store, recently leased to Denison's Stores, Inc., is the store now occupied by the New York Sample Shop. This is incorrect. The New York Sample Shop will continue in its present location. The store leased to Denison's Stores, Inc., is an adjoining store in the Clermont Building which is owned by Fein, Inc.

On The Radio Day By Day

Time in Eastern Standard.

New York, April 7 (AP)—In another week baseball will be starting its annual summer-long performance, and radio is preparing to herald the occasion with one, two or three special programs. They'll all come over the week-end. Executives and celebrities of the game will be called before the microphone of WEA-FNBC for the first edition to provide predictions and discuss the situation. This will be Saturday evening. Later on that night WJZ-NBC will put on a dramatization based on baseball, past and present. In WABC-CBS contribution which will come Sunday night, the Deans brothers will be a part of the salute to the new diamond year. There will be pickups from seven cities.

British radio has decided to try its hand at amateur programs. They will be patterned after the American idea except in one important detail: the song will be missing and each act will be permitted to finish no matter what happens. To give listeners on this side of the Atlantic an idea how the British amateur show will be run, 15 minutes of the first one—the date is May 1—will be brought over and rebroadcast by WJZ-NBC.

TRY THESE TONIGHT (TUESDAY):

TALKS: WEA-FNBC at 7:45—Norman Thomas on "A Socialist Looks at the Constitution"; WJZ-NBC at 9:30—Sen. Rush D. Holt on "The State of the WPA"; WABC-CBS at 10:45—Edward A. Filene on "Two Campaigns—1860 and 1936."

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The many-winged house in which Al Jolson, Jr. recently celebrated his first birthday is a product of evolution. It began 18 months ago when Paul D. Dray bought a house on the grove in Encino, 12 miles out in the valley, and announced that he and Ruby Keeler would keep the simple three-room house already on the premises. "We may add a room or two and a second bath, but we'll keep it small, and simple," said the mammy-singer.

But an architect changed their minds. They decided to tear the old house down, replacing it with a cottage, still "small and simple." It was Ruby who thought of possible guests. That was how the eight wing began—two guest rooms, two dressing rooms, two more baths. So, with that settled, the Jolsons went east vacationing.

Then Came A Nursery

Al Jolson, Jr., came back with them—at least with Ruby. For Al had been called east again. When Al got back, Ruby already had planned the nursery—"on the sunny side of the house," she explained, "with plenty of window space, and a room for the nurse is right beside it."

"And with the baby and all," she went on, as Al approved, "we'll have to keep more help. We'll need at least two more maids in the service wing on the west."

All that was arranged, too. Then Jolson, with memories of oldtime hotel life, suggested: "Let's have a kitchenette upstairs, near our room. A place to get a snack late at night without disturbing the kitchen."

The architect worked that in, easily. One morning Al had another idea. "I want a lot of sun porches, never did get enough sun," he announced. The house has sun porches.

How The Pool Happened

Things were going along swimmingly by now. And that reminds me—it was about this time Jolson decided on a swimming pool. "Put it here," he ordered.

"Sure," said Jolson. "And while we're doing it, we can have a playroom built at the same time."

"The cars," said Ruby reflectively, "can't sit out in the weather."

The house has a five-stall garage, with living quarters for the chauffeur and for Frank Holmes, Jolson's long-time "dresser" on stage and screen.

About this time Jolson went east again on business, and Ruby thought maybe that business lemon grove adjoining their place would be nice to have. She bought it.

And today the house that Al and Ruby built, the house that just evolved, is—quite a house!

At The Theatres

Today

Broadway: "Colleen." With a group of Warner Brothers' stars all topped in for box office appeal, the latest of the musical masterpieces proves to be a gigantic, unswerving mixture of farce, emotional moments, dancing, songs and plain drama. It tells of a bewildered millionaire and his troubles, of a crooner and his troubles and of a lady chocolate dipper and her troubles. The production offers Dick Powell, Ruby Keeler, Jack Oakie and Joan Blondell in the stellar roles with Hugh Herbert, Louise Fazenda, Marie Wilson, Louis Alber, Berton Churchill, Hobart Cavanaugh and J. M. Kerrigan featured. The picture also marks the screen debut of Paul Dray, sensational Broadway dancer, who gyrates effectively with Miss Keeler. During the course of events with Dick Powell crooning nicely, plus the addition of a host of attractive chorus girls, this musical comedy is a useful and satisfactory entertainment.

Kingsport: "Give Us This Night" and "Don't Get Personal." With the Mediterranean serving as the locale for the opening picture at the Kingsport, it brings back Gladys Swarthout to the talking screen after her debut in the none too successful "Rose of the Rancho." This time however, Miss Swarthout finds herself in happier surroundings as the production becomes a blend of romance and song. Helped along by Jan Kiepura, a singing star from European stage, plus Philip Merivale and Benny Baker, the show is acceptable entertainment, tuneful and pleasant to see and hear. "Don't Get Personal" tells of a trouble shooter of the telephone company who falls in love with a rich girl and wins her over the objections of both the girl and her fiancé. James Dunn and Sally Eilers head the cast. Orpheum: "Show Them No Mercy." The reactions of a kidnaper, after the ransom has been paid and the G-men are on their trail, proves to be exciting and violent entertainment as it describes how two innocent young people get mixed up with the gang who are desperately trying to pass ransom bills and stay free of the law at the same time. This play is cruel, stark and bitter drama, directed with finesse and effectiveness and the work of Bruce Cabot and Cesar Romero is a stand-out part of the film. The cast also includes Rochelle Hudson. Worth seeing.

Tomorrow

Broadway: "Lady of Secrets." Sprinkled adequately with emotional moments, the Broadway feature picture stars the dramatic Ruth Chatterton in another of her heartless and harassed roles, this time as the girl who falls in love with a man

Dairymen's League Distributes $530,000

New York, April 7.—The Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc., is distributing $530,000 in interest to holders of the Association's Certificates of Indebtedness.

Interest on the Association's Certificates of the 11, 11, 11 and 15 issues became due May 1, but under authorization of the Board of Directors Treasurer J. A. Coulter began making payments late in March. Payments are being made as fast as holders of Certificates present their interest coupons.

The Dairymen's League is urging presentation of $19,000 worth of DD Certificates which were called for payment May 1, 1935, and upon which interest ceased on that date. Holders of these Certificates have nothing to say by not cashing them. They are merely divesting themselves of the use of this money which the Association is anxious to pay.

Planes Will Not Bomb Addis Ababa. France Holds Soldiers

London, April 7 (AP)—The foreign office announced today that new assurances Italian airplanes would not bomb Addis Ababa or Dire Dawa, Ethiopia, were given Sir Eric Drummond, British ambassador to Rome, yesterday.

It also announced that Lord Halifax, minister of war, would join Anthony Eden, foreign secretary, in Geneva for Locarno treaty conversations and that military staff talks with France and Belgium will begin here April 1.

Sir Eric went to Fulvio Suvich, Italian undersecretary for foreign affairs following the machine-gunning of the airfield in Addis Ababa yesterday to remind him of the assurances Italy gave October 20 that Addis Ababa and Dire Dawa would not be bombed.

Suvich explained that the Italian planes attacked the aviation camp outside Addis Ababa because an Italian plane met an Ethiopian plane and followed it back to the field.

Suvich was reported to have said that the Italians attacked after they were met with anti-aircraft fire.

Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's government was supported today by a new vote of confidence from the House of Commons in its efforts to settle the Rhineland crisis and the Italo-Ethiopian conflict.

After a long and bitter debate over the government's policies toward Germany and Italy, during which the opposition criticized government moves, the Commons voted its confidence, 361 to 143.

Federal Men Take Over Counterfeiting Case

Held Under Colors
Paris, April 7 (AP)—The war ministry announced today all French troops whose terms of service were due to expire shortly would be held under colors until further orders.

The decree, signed by War Minister Felix Maurin, applied to troops whose terms of service were to expire April 15.

The measure was approved by the government, which has been considering the crisis resulting from Germany's remilitarization of the Rhineland in defiance of the Versailles treaty and Locarno pact.

Foreign Minister Pierre-Etienne Flandin, ready to serve notice on Britain that she must join repression action against Germany in the event of a "breakdown of negotiations," turned meanwhile to Geneva.

Official sources said the French regarded the March 19 London agreement of the Locarno powers, providing for military aid in the event of a German attack and for measures to "meet the new situation," as a trump card among their proposals.

France's delegates to Geneva would insist that such measures take the form of sanctions or other punitive action, officials said, if they encountered an "obstinate refusal" by Adolf Hitler to make some preparation for his Locarno violation.

Three-Point Plan
Flandin pointed to Geneva a three-point plan which informed sources said included:

A request to the other Locarno powers—Great Britain, Belgium and Italy—to seek action against the Reich under the league covenant.

A refusal to accept any fortification of the Rhineland, bordering on France and Belgium, which was demilitarized under the treaties of Versailles and Locarno.

An absolute rejection of Hitler's proposal for four-month negotiation of new, separate peace pacts, to be substituted by France's policy of a collective security system.

Flandin would not wait until he arrived in Geneva, officials sources said, but would begin pressing foreign Secretary Anthony Eden for British support of France while they were traveling to the League center today by train.

Sharp Protest
Vienna, April 7 (AP)—A sharp protest by the Little Entente against Austria's plan to strengthen its military forces reverberated through southeastern Europe today, bringing to a head the question of scraps in the treaties which ended the world war.

The Little Entente—Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Rumania—demanded that Austria's new scheme of compulsory service to the state "with or without arms" was a deliberate violation of the treaty of German, which placed limits on Austrian army.

As this protest came to Austrian foreign Minister Egon Berner, Walther, informed sources said Hungary and Bulgaria, also restless with the restrictions of World War treaties, watched intently to determine whether Austria would open the way for them to cast off their limitations also.

The first impression gained in Austrian official circles was that the plan would go ahead with its compulsory service plan for all men in the age of 18 to 42, thus bringing directly the Little Entente.

Sea Creatures Land Animals
The popular names of many creatures of the sea indicate a real or fancied resemblance to forms of life to be found on land. Thus there are sea-spiders, sea-urchins, sea-otters, sea-spiders, sea-leopards, sea-cows, sea-horses, sea-serpents and many others. Many which take their names from plant life on land, such as the sea anemone, sea cucumber, sea-lemon, and sea lily are themselves members of the animal kingdom.

Italy Once Fashion Dictator
There was a time when Italy dictated fashions for the whole world. In the Middle Ages and later, during the Renaissance, Italian modes of dress were widely copied. Traces of this ancient supremacy may still be found in the terminology of the fashion industry. The word "millinery," for instance, is derived from the Italian term "millinaria" used for certain types of Milanese fabrics.

Trucks of Wagons Preserved
The last signs of the covered wagon "that crossed the continent" during the hard-rush days of the 1800s can be seen on the salt beds of Utah. Owing to the peculiar nature of these beds, the tracks of the wagons have been preserved on this desert by a distinct disintegration—Collier's Weekly.

POLITICS at Random

THE current tax discussion in congress demonstrates pointedly how major political issues often become hopelessly confused and beclouded.

It is agreed universally that the government is facing a time of critical decision with respect to its finances. The budget has been out of balance for five years, and there is widespread questioning about the whole problem of national fiscal policy.

As a matter of common sense, it would seem that in such times the voters should be given an opportunity, under a democratic form of government, to express themselves clearly and directly.

Theoretically, it would appear a simple matter to put into the campaign an issue stated thus: should taxes now be increased to equal expenditures, and if so who should bear the burden?

Actually, national decisions seldom work out that way. Not only is any expression on this subject complicated by a tangle with other issues, but the tax issue itself has become so complicated that it is hard for anyone to understand it without the aid of a textbook on public finance and a table of logarithms.

An Evasive Topic
In the first place, there is no prospect that either of the major parties will say directly in its platform that it favors an immediate balancing of the budget by increasing taxation.

If the precedents of former years are followed, the voter who wants a balance struck at once will have no chance to vote his convictions. He will have to choose instead between two party planks of beautifully indefinite language, meaning one thing to one person and another thing to another.

As to the methods to be pursued in any tax increase, the likelihood of vague party declarations is even greater. The membership of both parties in congress is split widely. Whatever bill is enacted will be, inevitably, a patchwork of compromises; and it will be the job of the respective platform committees at the conventions to please as many different schools of thought as possible.

The usual result of that process is to leave the subject in a complete fog, from which it can be rescued only if one or the other of the principal candidates for president brings forward a clearly-defined program of his own.

But even about this, there are many complications.

Roosevelt Theory Attacked

MR. ROOSEVELT, for instance, already is on record for an increased tax on corporation incomes.

His proposal immediately is attacked on the one hand as a plan to "soak the rich," and on the other as a disguised thrust at "the little fellow" who, it is argued by some of Mr. Roosevelt's opposition, would have to foot the bill eventually.

On top of this, congress has rewritten the Roosevelt program, bringing into play a sliding scale of corporation rates so intricate that it is almost impossible to explain in language understandable by the layman.

To some of this administration officials object, thus inferentially washing their hands of the political consequences. The result will probably be more rewriting.

In the end, whose bill will it be? Who can be held accountable for it at the polls, when apparently every one finds it unsatisfactory? Beset by technical controversy and even contradictory statements of fact, how can the voter tell what the bill really means, especially as its practical operation will be delayed until next year?

At this distance, it appears that confusion and frustration will be the tax issue's principal contribution to the campaign.

Borah Test Goes On In Western Area

MILWAUKEE, April 7 (AP)—Senator William E. Borah's strength as a Republican presidential candidate contender underwent its first western test today.

Wisconsin voters chose between a slate of 24 national convention delegates pledged to Borah and an unaffiliated group backed by the state G. O. P. organization.

At the same time, Milwaukee's Social administration hung in the balance in a mayoralty contest that pitted Mayor Daniel W. Hoan, Socialist, who held the office 20 years against Sheriff Joseph Shinnery, a nonpartisan supported by many business interests. The election and one of the bitterest campaigns in the city's history and led to predictions of a record vote.

On the Democratic side of the presidential plurality, a slate of delegates endorsed by the state conference and pledged to Roosevelt faced only scattered opposition.

Borah, defeated in New York last week, was optimistic over his chances in Wisconsin.

In an election eye bid for support here last night, he declared it was not in the interest of Democracy to permit delegates so unscrupulously to the national convention where votes are traded and bartered. He added:

"The will and desire of people at home has very little influence on an unscrupulous delegate after the convention has assembled."

The Republican delegate battle closed in a dispute over party funds. The national committee is based in Washington, but on complaint of Wisconsin Borah supporters it had ordered an inquiry into charges that party funds for the presidential campaign were used in the delegate election.

Edward J. Camp, chairman of the Wisconsin Republican committee, said that at least $2,000 was received from the national committee and used to aid the campaign of an unaffiliated slate of delegates in the primary. Not a cent of it was national committee funds.

Tied up closely with the issue of Mayor Hoan's socialism in the Milwaukee election was a referendum on purchase of the electric utility by the city.

Palen Heads Group To Protect Animals

The Ulster County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals at its annual meeting held last Saturday afternoon in the office of Ward B. Everett elected Elmer Palen, who has been serving the society as vice-president, as its president for the ensuing year.

Mr. Palen succeeds Walter P. Crane who declined reelection as president. The other officers elected were: Vice-president, A. H. Chambers, in place of Mr. Palen; Secretary and Treasurer, Roy M. Sutcliffe, succeeding Ward B. Everett, who declined reelection.

The trustees elected were Mrs. George Coykendall, Mrs. Conrad Hasbrouck, Ward B. Everett, Walter P. Crane, Mrs. John N. Cordis, David Burgett, Raphael Cohen, C. O. Fromer, Dr. Harold Clarke, N. LeVan Harver, F. A. Gildersleeve and William R. Kraft.

The society was organized July 22, 1891, and incorporated at that time. The charter members, all of whom are dead, were Colonel John McEntee, Wesley B. Hale, Guilford Hasbrouck, Dr. A. P. Chalker, John Forsyth, John Searing and Judge Charles F. Cantline.

Mr. Crane who has served as president of the organization for some years past succeeded the late Amos Van Eitten, who had held the office for many years.

Since horses have been practically replaced with automobiles the society's labors have been greatly lessened. No complaint that has been made to the society, however, has been neglected, but all complaints have been thoroughly investigated.

The society has had the splendid cooperation of the State Troopers and the city police in carrying on its work in Kingston and Ulster county.

In County Granges

County Mass Meeting
Despite an all day rain, a large number of Ulster county Grangers attended the first meeting in the series of visitation meetings to be conducted throughout the county for the revolving scholarship fund.

The meeting was held at Stone Ridge Grange hall on Thursday evening and was in charge of Pomona Lecturer Mary L. O'Connor, who presented a very worthwhile and interesting program.

Owing to illness, Pomona Master Albert Kurdt was unable to attend much to the regret of those present. Deputy State Master J. Wells Weaver spoke briefly on the purpose of the meeting and hoped for success of the project.

Mrs. Herman Kramer of Rosendale opened the program with a poem entitled Bill Jones' neighbors.

The Rev. Fred E. Dean of Rochester, New York, chaplain of the N. Y. State Grange in an address took for his subject, "How can we prepare our rural youth to face the future?" Mr. Dean's opinion is that one of the ways, at present, to help youth is to keep them longer in training and another to preserve home atmosphere of encouragement.

Mr. Dean, an interesting speaker, put his message across in a humorous but very convincing manner.

W. J. Rich of Salem, overseer of the New York State Grange, a guest of I. C. Barnes of New Paltz, Ulster County Pomona overseer, next spoke on the value of the fraternity meetings and also the Grange Mutual Liability Insurance, which he represents.

A recitation, "Spring," by Miss Marjory Minard of Walkill, was so well received she took for an encore "Somersault."

Rosendale presented a short play, "When Greek Meets Greek," with Herman Kramer, Mrs. Neil Hotelling and Mrs. Henry Mollenhauer in the cast.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hooker of Lake Katrine with Mrs. George Kenney in the piano rendered two songs in their usual pleasing manner.

Homowack Grange presented an original play, written by Miss Ruth Ter Bush of Homowack, entitled "In Like a Lion, Out Like a Lamb." In the cast were Miss Dora Bolce, Miss Ter Bush, Oscar Horling and Raymond Shapp.

Mrs. Myrtle De Mar of Rosendale gave a monologue, "Never take your wife to a Ball Game."

Contributions were generously offered for the Scholarship Fund after which the service and hospitality committee under the direction of the county chairman, Mrs. Charles Shapp of Spring Glen, served refreshments.

Home of the Snapping Turtle
The snapping turtle inhabits muddy rivers, lakes and ponds in all parts of America from Canada to the Equator. It will live in the water for hours on end with only its nostrils above the surface, to allow it to breathe. But when the necessity arises, it can remain below the surface for a long time. It crawls along the bottom seeking food, which mostly consists of fish with occasional small water fowl. Food is roughly torn to pieces between the jaws and front claws, and this animal seems to be completely carnivorous. Like all the chelonians which inhabit water, this one has broad webbed feet, each having long coarse nails.

When enrollment at the Model school, near Estherville, Ia., dwindled to four pupils the board of education voted to close it and to arrange their transportation to Estherville schools.

Red Cross Aids 100,000 Families In Flood-Stricken Eastern Area

Left—A ton of baby food and blankets for infant flood refugees at Sunbury, Pa., sent by air. Upper right—Suffered by their slight little cranes of the storm sub at Red Cross food station in Pittsburgh. Lower right—Warm clothing was needed in Pittsburgh when zero weather followed floods.

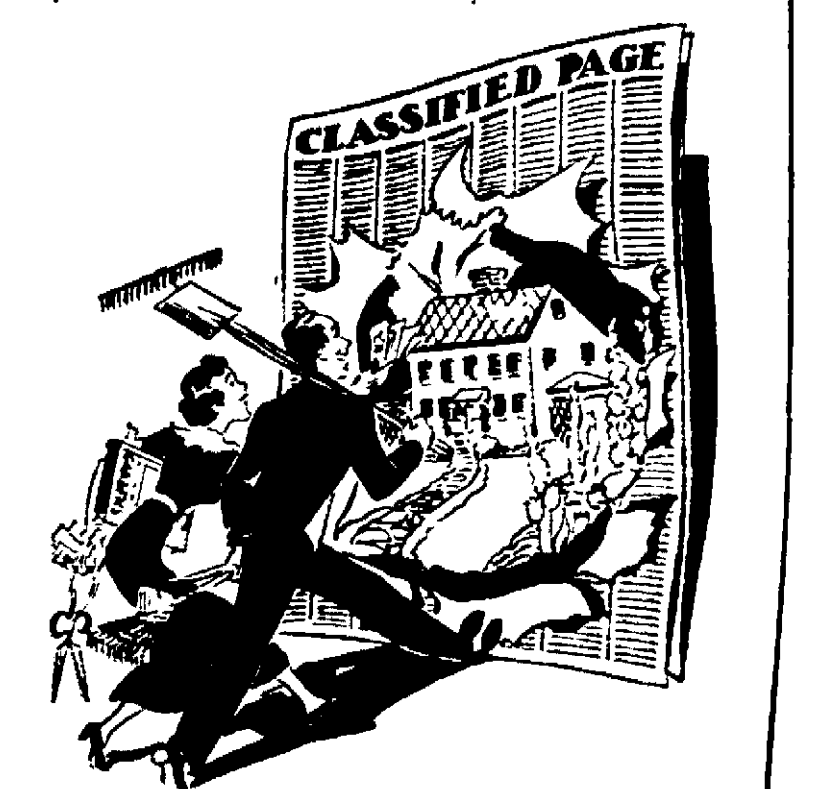

THE appalling floods that swept over eastern states during the middle of March caused the American Red Cross to take under its care more than 100,000 families in thirteen states. Pennsylvania was hardest hit, and in the cities of Pittsburgh and Johnstown the Red Cross alone fed, sheltered or clothed 117,000 persons. The suffering was intense, because added to deluges of flood water, came rain, snow and intense cold.

Many cities and towns were cut off for 48 hours or more from communication with the outside world, both in Pennsylvania and in Connecticut. The Red Cross used airplanes to rush medical supplies into afflicted towns, and to drop food supplies from the skies over other places. Trucks with water, medicine, food, clothing were rushed into many towns. Amateur radio operators told the outside world over short wave sets what the true conditions were.

Within a few days the Red Cross had more than 200 relief workers and 200 Red Cross nurses in all of the communities in the thirteen states which had suffered from flood waters.

Admiral Cary T. Grayson, Chairman, United States Red Cross, who is President of the Red Cross, that a relief fund of at least $2,000,000 would be needed. President Roosevelt addressed a proclamation to the nation asking for liberal contributions. When double the number of families came under care of the Red Cross than

Calendar Made Up For County Court

Monday afternoon the April trial term of County Court was convened with Judge Frederick G. Traver presiding. On the call of the calendar, which contains 51 civil cases, no case was found ready for trial today and a calendar for Wednesday afternoon was made up and the jurors were excused until that time.

The first week will be devoted to civil matters and next week District Attorney Cleon B. Murray will take up the criminal matters.

Wednesday morning a matter which has been pending for some time will be disposed of without a jury and jury trial matters will follow in the afternoon. The calendar is:

No. 23, Samuel D. Peterman vs. Ernest J. Perry, an action on contract.

No. 24, William A. Huppenbauer vs. Arthur S. Reynolds, a negligence case. Appeal by defendant from city court.

No. 36, Martha Flannery vs. T. Van Buren Cockburn, action for personal injuries caused by negligence.

No. 41 and 42, Frank Krajewski and Jasper W. Hall against Vincent Knoll. Action for personal property injury.

No. 44, Emory Haabrouck vs. Edward L. Goebel, breach of contract.

No. 18, Elmer Speedling vs. Charles Freer, negligence.

No. 7, John Millicent against Antonio Frisa, Grace Frisa and Angelina Frisa, action on contract.

To Represent The Travelers
Jay E. Molyneux, son of Abram Molyneux, of Kingston has gone to Hartford, Conn., where he is attending a life and accident training school for representatives of The Travelers Insurance Company. Mr. Molyneux will be there for four weeks, and upon his return will represent The Travelers in Kingston.

SHOKAN

Shokan, April 7.—Eltinge Gray and family have moved from the Archie Van Benachoten place at Aho-kon to Mrs. May Giles' house on the state road. Mrs. Giles last week transferred her household effects to Kingston, where she and her brother, William Personeus, spent last winter.

The recent cold snap started the maple sap to running again, with the result that those who had not taken up their buckets were enabled to do a little late-season syrup making. Saturday, the sap ran better than on any previous day in the present season; it kept up throughout the day which was something it failed to do during the balmy weather of late March. The syrup and sugar made now probably will be inferior in quality to that of the early run, but, as some one has pertinently remarked: "Syrup is going to be syrup, this year."

Herbert A. Dibble came up from New York to spend the week-end with Mrs. Dibble at their place here. "Bert" is feeling first rate again, following recovery from his serious illness of last winter.

Miss Barbara Tuelcing of Rhinebeck was a week-end visitor to her home here. William Tuelcing, Jr., drove his sister back to Rhinebeck Sunday.

The sucker fishermen are at it in considerable number at various points along the shore line of the west basin of the reservoir. Trout fishing parties were less in evidence than in former years at the opening of the season. The cold, windy weather of Saturday morning was disappointing, while the icicles dangling from twigs and driftwood along the brooks only served to emphasize the unfavorable conditions generally. The trout hold rather gingerly, if at all; obviously they were not hungry, and possibly they were quite as uncomfortable as the shivering sportsmen at the other end of the line.

Teunis Van der Bent, noted architect who died recently in New York, was an uncle of Pietrus J. Risenstra, a likeable young man who with his wife and child spend their annual vacation on the Van der Bent summer place here.

The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed Sunday morning in the Shokan Reformed Church of which the Rev. August Pfau is the pastor. The sermon text was from Mark 26:23. The Rev. Thomas Braithwaite, formerly pastor of the Krumville Church, offered a prayer.

Benjamin Moe, of Hamilton, Ohio, came here the latter part of the week to attend the funeral of his father, Clarence Moe. The young man for several years operated a garage and repair shop at Mt. Tremper.

J. Angel and family left for their home in Glens Falls, Sunday, after spending a brief vacation at their bungalow near Tice Ten Eyck mountain.

Elwyn Winchell, local corner store proprietor, on Saturday sold one of the old gas-lighting fixtures which were in use at the store before electricity was put in. The buyer was a stranger who said that his employers, a big power company, were collecting old lamps and similar relics of the simpler life for exhibition purposes.

Mrs. Herman Wendt, Sr., and son, George, of Springfield, L. I., are visiting at the home of Mrs. Chapp's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Gales.

The heavy rains of Sunday night and Monday forenoon raised the local brook to the flood stage, the water being fully as high as it was during the March freshet. Hundreds of small torrents rushed down the mountain slopes, very much as they did in the course of last summer's floods. The water was only slightly discolored this time, as in contrast with last month's run-off. The maple sap continued to flow steadily throughout the storm, but there was too much rain water in the buckets to make it worth while gathering the sap.

Total Kanawha flood stage was 127.141, 26 at the close of 1935.

High School News

May Queen Chosen.

At a meeting of the Senior Class, called by President Byrne on Monday, March 30, nominations and election were held for one of the most prominent positions a senior girl can hold, that of May Queen. The final selection was between Rachel MacDaniel and Hermine La-watsch. Rachel MacDaniel was elected May Queen and Hermine La-watsch automatically became her maid of honor.

The six attendants to the May Queen were selected the following morning. They are: Dorothy Groene, Barbara Shultis, Doris Wren, Elsa McLean, Marjorie Osterhoudt and Ruth Watska.

Maroon Assembly Popular.

Maroon assembly is usually one of the most popular of the Kingston High School year. The program presented Thursday and Friday mornings, March 26 and 27, proved especially entertaining. Ray Randall's orchestra first played a group of selections, including "Stardust," "Love Came Out of the Night," "Stampin' on the Savoy," and "You Hit the Spot." Bath Brit tapped "You Hit the Spot" and Jane Ball "Eney-Meeney-Miney Mo." A medley, "Drifting Tide" and "Sophisticated Lady" was played by Jeanne Molyneux, who had also arranged the two songs in medley form. Marjorie Osterhoudt and a quartet consisting of Bob Everett, Arthur Fritog, Thomas O'Hara and Edward Ford, then sang "Wake Up and Sing." There followed a piano duet by Arthur Fritog and Bob Everett, "Sweet Sue." After Bob Everett, Arthur Fritog and Edward Ford had played "No, No, a Thousand Times No." on empty pop bottles, Larry Glennen as Little Nell, Robert Van Kleeck as the villain, and Thomas O'Hara as the hero, acted the dramatic little ballad in an amusing fashion. Conrad Kantzier was master of ceremonies and Jeanne Molyneux was business announcer for the program, which met with enthusiastic response on the part of the audience.

Newburgh Debate Victory.

Wednesday, April 1, Kingston's negative debating team met Newburgh's affirmative on the topic of socialized medicine, and won the unanimous decision of the judges in their favor. Kingston has a very favorable debating record for this term. If the Mid-Hudson debate is won by Kingston's affirmative, Kingston will be champion in Class A, and will compete in the final with Class B champions for the DUSO Debating League championship banner. Those on the negative team were Cecil Thompson, first speaker; Evelyn Olivet, second speaker; and Fred Holcomb, third speaker, with Francis Nolan as alternate. The team stayed in Newburgh for dinner and a movie, which they enjoyed immensely, before returning home.

French Fete a Success.

The French Fete, held Friday afternoon, was very successful. The amusing and charming little play, "Arlequinade," and the exhibit of stamps, models, dolls in peasant costume, note books and posters, were very convincing representations of excellent work being done in the French department at the high school.

Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The newly organized Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce will meet in the Crystal Room of the Governor Clinton hotel tonight at 8 o'clock. An unusually large attendance is expected due to the work of the membership committee, who have been busy the past three weeks contacting prospective members. The meeting will begin promptly on time, according to H. G. LaMotte, president of the organization.

South Cairo Boy Seriously Injured

Richard Shelley, 6 years old, son of Fred Shelley, who resides near South Cairo, is lying in a critical condition at the Memorial Hospital of Greene County as the result of being struck about 3:25 o'clock this morning by an automobile driven by Raymond W. Garraghan, formerly of Windham, now of Manor Lake, Kingston, an executive of the Newcombe Oil Company.

The boy was on his way to school and had alighted from a bus driven by Percy Lampman of Leeds and was crossing the road to enter another bus, when Mr. Garraghan, who was on his way from Windham to Kingston, drove up.

Critically Hurt

The boy stepped almost directly in front of the approaching car and Mr. Garraghan, it is said, did all that was humanly possible to avoid striking the youngster. The boy was knocked down by the automobile and severely injured.

Mr. Garraghan stopped his car as quickly as possible, picked up the injured boy and drove with him to the Memorial Hospital, where Dr. Mahlon H. Atkinson took charge of the case.

An examination showed that the little fellow has suffered a fractured skull, internal injuries, a large gash on his forehead, a compound fracture of the left leg and a broken right arm.

Mr. Garraghan left word at the hospital that everything possible should be done for the injured boy, to have special nurses to care for him and he would pay the bill. He deeply deplored the accident and Trooper Fred C. Knight, who is investigating, said today that he had not found that Mr. Garraghan was in any way to blame.—Catskill Daily Mail.

Youth Council Easter Dawn Service Sunday

The fourth annual Easter dawn service of the Ulster County Christian Youth Council will be held on Sunday morning at 7 o'clock in the rear of the high school. The public is cordially invited to attend this service.

The Rev. Russell S. Gaenzle, pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, will deliver the address of the morning. Music will be furnished by an orchestra under the direction of Charles Brandt of Hurley, and a mixed choir under the leadership of the Rev. C. E. Brown of the Wurts Street Baptist Church. The choir will be made up of young people from various young people's societies from churches throughout the city. A vocal solo will be given by Donald Clark. Several other ministers of the city will also participate in different parts of the service, as will several members of the Youth Council. In the event of rain, the service will be held in the Auditorium of the high school at the same time.
